Overall quality of education provided by event

Format for future events

What impact will this event have on your future practice?

Better insight to HIV + Hepatitis B.

Greater understanding of immunology and new evidence coming out.

This will depend on the changes clinicians make to their practice.

Helped refresh knowledge of PID - considering application to paediatric training and provided re-inspiration for GRID training in later career .

Better knowledge in post transplant viruses.

I have more understanding of clinical aspects of my laboratory knowledge. Will aid discussions with clinicians.

Feel better equipped to discuss the implications of neonatal screening for PID and options for Hep B treatment.

I have learnt a huge amount from the speakers, every talk was very relevant to me as a trainee. I have definitely learnt things I can take forward in my clinical practice.

Have already agreed with virology and clinical colleagues re changing testing practice, data gathering and analysis, as a result of this event.

Implementation of evidence based practice.

Increase knowledge and confidence.

Completing SPIN module in Peed ID/Immunology.

We have several patients who are approaching BMT for various reasons and the presentations around these were particularly valuable. The case presentations were very interesting and would be interesting to hear if either get a diagnosis.

Aids my knowledge for paediatric to adult transition.

Members were asked to provide feedback on their experience of the hybrid option

Worked well. I was online but still felt "part" of the event.

Hybrid is valuable for offering those unable to travel or who are not free for the whole day.

Very well run, able to get input from speakers virtually in an accessible way with no technical issues.

Helpful to have speakers online from various areas who may not otherwise have been able to attend.

Ideal balance as not able to attend in person.

Enabled me to attend the morning in person and the afternoon online.

Excellent! It allowed colleagues and trainees from around Scotland to attend easily.

Overall was very smooth and clear. Could benefit from having speakers being closer to the microphone more consistently for those attending online.

Did not feel disadvantaged by attending online. It allowed me to manage my clinical commitments better.

I found the online experience excellent. No travel required!

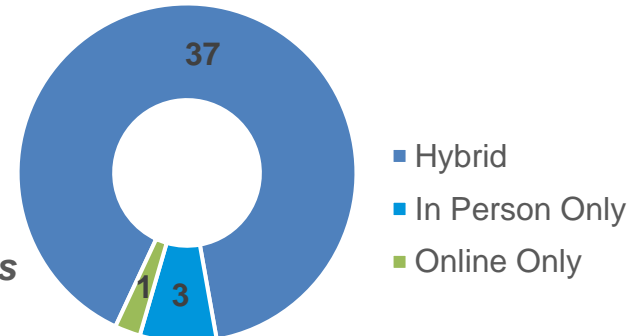

Worked very well. Lovely to be able to meet and chat, online streaming did not interfere with the event.

Good to be able to dial in while on call for the service

In person is great for networking and for staff who learn better in this environment.

I think it worked really well and I was pleasantly surprised how well the technology went!

Attendees were asked to provide any further comments

What went well:

- Excellent venue. Many thanks to Mary, Hugh, Kat and Fiona for organising.
- Excellent, enjoyed the whole day. Thanks for organising.
- Glad I went!
- Hybrid allowed more people to attend at least for part of the meeting.
- Thank you for a very interesting day.
- Well organised, great speakers, many thanks to everyone.
- Very useful to have hybrid option when working in North of Scotland.
- A great event, thank you.
- Enjoyable day. Good overall length of day for travelling with good start and finish timings.
- Thanks for organising.

What could be done better:

- HIV lecture would have been better in a longer slot.
- Better management of the discussion time would have been better.
- Would have been good to have a copy of all the slides before hand so that notes could be added to them to take away.

Overall feedback reflected the programme to be very well received by attendees.

It was agreed the event was well organised, informative, interesting, enabled networking, and most importantly, educated in a way that it would positively impact practices in the future.

Constructive feedback highlighted the need for more controlled timings. The timings ran over due to valuable discussions taking place as part of the presentations, however, this time was made up in the afternoon, with the event still finishing on schedule.

A hybrid approach allowed valuable networking for those who attended in-person, as well as offering staff unable to attend for the full day due to work or personal commitments, to also attend online.
